The Congress of Vienna was a meeting of many leaders of Europe, to help provide control. After Napolean was defeated, the governments wanted to form an alliance around France, in order to stop another leader such as Napolean.

The main powers became known as the Quadruple Alliance. The Agreement of the Congress of Vienna created the Alliance around France. Many territories were distributed, such as Saxony. Although Britain did not get any new territories on the mainland, they did get new islands.

Not only were territories distributed, but all countries went to their original, rightful owners. Italy, among others went to the Bourbon monarchy.

Stability was a main concern for the Congress of Vienna for one main reason. They believed that the government should have strict command. After seeing what can unstable government could cause, namely Napoleon, the Congress of Vienna did not want it to happen again.

While Prince Metternich's (of Austria) system was in action, the Congress decided to issue the Carlsbad Decrees. The Carlsbad Decrees would keep a heavy watch on university teachers and students, to insure stability. Also, they would heavily censor newspapers and other publications.

Govts have as primary goal stability + order, Rule of Law for Govt is control + maint. control, Therefore, fear of extension of political power to people is a common character. of all govts at any time in history.
